Yale Record

Locals 34 and 35 demands

Uniforms which will convey dignity and respect: form-fitting vinyl suits complete with eye-visors.

Antidote for lethal Yale Serum™, injected upon hiring and activated when employees become unruly.

Seven weeks of paid leave, eight if obese (because it takes longer to walk back, duh).

Steady employee pay increases over the next 10 years, in order to create inflation of service prices and unemployment for others in New Haven.

Upon retirement, a pension plan guaranteeing 91% of employee salary in addition to 3 pheasants per annum.

Job training, in order for advancement into unions that organize better strikes.

Yale Administration demands

Heartier omelets.

Medical insurance will continue to have no deductibles on the condition that employees greet superiors with "Gov'ner" and dance brief jigs.

The first male child of each employee.

More scabs, more glorious, glorious scabs

Option to murder employees during times of economic hardship.

Unlimited access to joy rides on the zamboni machines in Ingalls Rink.

GEORGE BILBE'S NOVEL,
SHOW YOUR OWN
HAS ITS SHARE.

The book, subtitled An Arguable Novel and a Screenplay, also involves the theatrical depiction of MANIC-DEPRESSIVE behavior and the evolution of a screenplay portraying a manic episode in a period of mid-life despondency. In the opinion of two psychiatrists, the author humorously and realistically describes thought, speech, and emotion, and he captures an infectious mania in a book that is entertaining and fun to read. Two English professors are equally generous in their assessment of the work's dialogue and atypical structure. Read an excerpt and some of the reviews at www.sinewavepress.com.
