Fox Executives:

I propose a special television broadcast be brought to Fox television, the likes of which the world has never seen. People have seen races before, and they've seen reality television shows (side note: "Who's Your Daddy" was the most wonderful and heartfelt show I'd ever seen, even deeper than a Jerry Springer Final Thought). But now, races and reality are combined into one television program, where contestants will fight the clock in clock-fightingly spectacular events. This will be even more entertaining than watching Paris Hilton getting slapped in the face with a live trout! Repeatedly!

A brief synopsis of all potential sections of the program:

GREASED LIGHTNING – HOW QUICKLY CAN PREGNANT WOMEN POP OUT BABIES?

Contestants will try to beat Mrs. Jane Stevenson, who managed to have septuplets in 27 seconds. The attending obstetrician compared her uterus to a "greased clown car" and stated that he felt like he was "playing against a world-class dodge-ball team."

FROM SELLING DOPE TO "DON'T DROP THE SOAP!"

Can contestants top Tim McSweeney's 19 minute record for starting to sell drugs, getting arrested, and then suffering, as he put it, an "unfortunate penetration of the anal crease?"

THE GREAT INCOME TAX RACE

Detours, numerous squirrels, and Al Roker (pre-stomach staple) will impede contestants' progress on April 15th as they careen from their houses to a US Post Office using only a unicycle or cross-country skis. Can they beat Tom Feldman's 3 minutes, 57 seconds, where only one squirrel prematurely met its end by being fatally impaled on the business end of his Trans-Alpine-Master 3000's?

RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE

Who will be able to bring a brand-new laptop to its knees fastest? Will anyone be able to beat grandmother-of-four Gertrude Nicholson, who got the computer to begin cursing her in 133t speak and ejecting whole sections of RAM out of its disk drive in a mere 12 seconds?

RIP VAN WILDER – THE QUICKEST NON-NARCOLEPTIC PASSING OUT IN CLASS

Can anyone top Pat Henderson's record of walking into class and promptly passing out, knocking two students' Starbucks iced frappuccinos onto himself and relaxing so much that he urinated on two others in the process, at the mere mention of an "upcoming assignment?" It only took him 17 seconds. Henderson later said, "I didn't even hear the 'coming assignment' part, I was out cold at 'up'."

MICHELLE KWAN THEY AIN'T, HELL, NOT EVEN TONYA HARDING

Last year, little Jimmy Thomson tried to do the hokey pokey, but the hokey pokey pokeyed him, setting the record for "fastest hilarious fall at a roll-a-rama birthday party." After starting by putting out his left leg and shaking it all about, his right leg appeared to revolt and promptly kicked poor Jimmy in the teeth. From the catchy tune's start to Jimmy catching a fat lip on the ground: 3 seconds. Can anyone beat him?

Of course this program could be rounded out with such family favorites as "THE GAS STATION DEFECAATION – HOW QUICKLY CAN YOU GO?" and "FROM ICE CREAM TO ICE SCREAM – THE WORLD'S FASTEST ICE CREAM HEADACHE." You just cannot go wrong with such quality programming.

Sincerely,

Bryan Turner
