

A Day at George W. Bush's Ranch

Record staffers recently found the following piece of paper lying in the Davenport College courtyard after Parents' Weekend. Although we can't know for sure, it appears to be a page from our Commander-in-Chief's daily schedule. The Yale Record now presents it for the first time.

7

FRIDAY

AUGUST
S	M	T	W	Th	F	S
						1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30	31

7 AM
8	Watch Spot the dog lick his balls. Chuckle. Repeat.
9	Throw darts at picture of archrival poet T.S. Eliot.
10	Visit museum with elementary school group; make sure that no child is left behind.
11	Rumsfeld suggests reviving the Star Wars SDI program. Mocking laughter ensues.
12 PM	11:01 Laser shoots from the clouds, incinerating Condoleeza Rice. Laughter abruptly ceases.
1	Masturbate
2	Ponder if it is wise to "speed fins" to automatic thresher. Might regret it. Do it anyway. Regret it.
3	Pore over heavily-highlighted passages from Strunk and White's "Elements Of Style."
4	2:03 Get bored and turn on SpongeBob! Who lives in a pineapple under the sea? SpongeBob SquarePants!
5	Milk the chickens, pluck the cows
6	Use outcome of Mario Kart match to remind Cheney that he's "such a douche bag."
7	Go hunting for bobcat playfully nicknamed "Saddam Hussein"
8	Break up another animal meeting up in the barn... those pigs are up to something.
9://	Never forget.
10	Invite Laura to take part in a "faith-based initiative" in the master bedrooms.